Page 96: In the third to last bullet item, the determination date mentioned should be 12/31/2018, not 12/31/2012.

Page 466: Questions dealing with the reportable event concerning a reduction in the number of active participants on exams prior to 2016 would not incorporate the rules that became effective in 2016 concerning two types of reductions in the number of active participants: a single-cause event (this is new in 2016) and an attrition event (similar to the old rules). The old questions are technically not obsolete, but I have added the following note with regard to those questions to the outline:

Note when working old exam questions prior to 2016: There was previously no rule with regard to single-event reductions. So in any question on an exam prior to 2016, you can assume that if there was a reduction below the 75% or 80% reduction on a day other than the last day of the year, it was caused by a one-time event. Questions on the 2016 and later exams should make it clear whether a one-time event has occurred.
